CNHHE NEWS / NOUVELLES du RCSHE

CMP Multi-Stakeholder Workshop

The CNHHE is pleased to send two delegates, Sheila Cole, Nova Scotia Environmental Network, and Anne Rochon Ford, National Network on Environments and Women's Health, to the face-to-face multi-stakeholder Workshop on the Chemicals Management Plan Moving Forward on November 24 in Ottawa. The purpose of the workshop is to provide updates, share information and seek stakeholder input on the future of the CMP.

We look forward to hearing feedback from our participants, and we will share these through a future bulletin and on our website.

L'Atelier multilatéral des intervenants du Plan de gestion des produits chimiques

Le RCSHE est heureux d'envoyer deux déléguées, Sheila Cole, Nova Scotia Environmental Network, et Anne Rochon Ford, Réseau pancanadien sur la santé des femmes et le milieu, pour participer à l'atelier du PGPC qui aura lieu le 24 novembre. Le but de cet atelier consiste à fournir des mises à jour, à partager de l'information et à consulter les intervenants sur l'avenir du PGPC.

Nous partagerons leurs rapports sur l'atelier dans le Bulletin et sur la site-Web.

Changements climatique: signer l'appel à l'action de l'OMS

L'OMS vous encourage à soutenir son appel à l'action, afin de sensibiliser aux possibilités d'améliorer la santé en luttant contre le changement climatique, dès maintenant.

Sign the World Health Organization's Call to Action to Put Health at the Heart of the Paris Climate Negotiations

Climate change has the potential to do serious harm to the health of individuals around the world. But tackling climate change could substantially reduce the risks while also improving human health by, for example, delivering cleaner air and healthier cities.

That's why WHO is asking you to support their call to action, to raise awareness of the health opportunities we can realize by tackling climate change now. They are counting on you to add your voice to the call and invite your friends, family and professional networks to do the same. Join them and make sure we're heard.
